

Notes: Ran the sled above the pit wall several times. Nothing would crack which tells me it's hard to start a collapse in the weak layer. ECT results and recent avalanche activity tells me it's possible and when it does, the facets under the dust will propagate a crack really far.